"There is only one thing," replied the talesman.

Q. What is that? A. I have a niece ill with consumption and my mind is on her a great deal. It would be more so if I was kept in the jury box a month and able to see my family only once a day.

Mr. Edizar was accepted and took the sixth seat in the jury box. For the remainder of the day he sat gazing steadily at Molneux, not once taking his even off the defendant.

Henry Mannes, a furniture dealer, said that he could not act as a juror in a muriler case for the reason that he was "too merciful."

Mr. Osborne glared at the talesman and said: "Do you recognize that you are more merciful than a poisoner is?"

Mannes did not answer, but was allowed to step down. The next merciful man who was called was Andrew Davey, who said: "I cannot follow the law where there is a life at stak."

The Board of Canvassers in Brooklyn after a careful count of the ballots cast on election day finds that James R. Howe, the Republican nominee for Register of Kings county, was elected over John Morrissey Gray by about three hundred majority. Gray's friends are determined to have him counted in if such a determined to have him counted in if such a thing is possible. They allege that there are enough ballots marked "defective," butwhich are not vold, to elect him. His counsel, Charles H. Hyde, of Grout. Mayer & Hyde, yesterday obtained from Supreme Court Justice Smith in Brooklyn an order to show cause why the ballots marked as void or defective should not be resounted. In all there are about two thousand such ballots. The order is directed to the Board of Canvassers and argument on the motion will be had to-morrow. In case Justice Smith orders a recount he will appoint referees to pass upon the matter. The Republicans contend that if a recount is ordered Mr. Howe's majority will be increased.

INSURE YOUR TITLE.

[From Brooklyn (N. T.) Citisen, May 16, 1899.] HE WAS A BIGAMIST.

The People to Whom He Mortgaged His Real Estate Must Suffer.

In 1896, Catherine, the wife of J. F., became insane and was sent to the Amityville Home. A committee of her person and estate was appointed. J. F., imagining, perhaps, that he was at liberty to do so, married again. He owned much real estate in Brooklyn and New York; and, after his bigamous marriage, mortgaged it, his new wife, Ann, as she was called, joining with him in the mortgages. He died, and now his real widow, by her committee, is suing for admeasurement of dower in his estate. The mortgages were procured through reputable lawyers, and it is expected that much litigation will result. The widow's interest in the mortgaged property amounts to about $40,000.
